Authors' Note

The first spark of String came from a book of Greek myths, a picture of the Fates, and a question: why did those sisters never get a story of their own? In the myths, the Fates pop up in other gods' stories to keep them in check; each Fate has a particular job associated with the string of life – one spins, one measures, and one cuts. It seemed so immediately theatrical, this tangible metaphor for life, a strand of thread passed from sister to sister. Then we had another question: what if the Fates, like the rest of us, sometimes hate their dayjobs?

So we tossed our Fates off of Mount Olympus and into an office skyscraper in a modern metropolis. We liked the idea of the otherworldly and the everyday crackling together under one roof. Our Infinity Building – and the idiosyncratic chorus of workers who populate it – became a microcosm of the universe: the gods at the top, the security guards in the basement, and everyone else in between, grinding through their day without any clue what fate has in store.

Researching modern office life – to supplement our personal experience with dayjob ennui – led us to a fascinating New Yorker article, “Up and Then Down: The Lives of Elevators” by Nick Paumgarten, about the impact of the high-rise on modern life. And that's where our fun began: creating a world where elevators and cafeterias and gods and magic all lived side by side, and where the universe itself got to sing.

Soon we found that questions about life and love took on a new enormity in this god-infused world. What's more important, work, family, or love? Can love break us out of our shells and let us see the world through new eyes? And how do we wrestle with the fact that one day we'll have to let it go?

After seeing String, we hope you'll look at the mundane details of the world anew, scraps of songs running through your head as you watch a co-worker fumble with the copy machine. Life, a little brighter and stranger than you remembered it.

Premiering New Works

Village Theatre has been developing new musicals since its inception almost 40 years ago. Our process of cultivating new shows has been consistently evolving since then and has yielded some fantastic programs like The Festival of New Musicals and Beta Series – String is the culmination of both programs.

The Beta Series is a mini-season of fully-staged, sensibly produced new musicals at our First Stage Theatre in Issaquah. In these "developmental productions" we test out a new musical in front of an audience before bringing it to the Mainstage. The production designs are intentionally kept simple – that way, if the authors want to cut a character or rearrange a scene, they can do so freely without worrying about big set pieces or complicated mechanics.

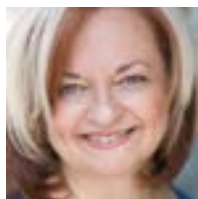

The show changes depending on how an audience reacts, and we use the audience as true Beta Testers. The authors watch the audience almost as much (if not more than) the actors to see if they laugh at their jokes, gasp, wipe away a tear, or fidget in their seat. After each performance, there is a talkback where the writers ask the audience about their experience with the show. Based on this response, the authors go back and make changes, and the show evolves based on this feedback. For example, in the Beta Series, the authors of String cut two songs, restructured act one, restored another song, and after the process was finished, also wrote a new song based on what they learned.

So now at Village Theatre, we have the resources – thanks to patrons like you – to support a show's development from a staged reading in our Festival of New Musicals (just hearing words and music from behind a music stand), to a developmental production in the Beta Series (seeing the show up on its feet in front of an audience with the beginnings of design elements), to a fully-produced World Premiere on our Mainstage, like the one you're seeing now.

If you are interested in how String got to the Mainstage and want to know more about developing new musicals, or the building blocks of writing musical theatre, visit our Village Originals website: VillageOriginals.org

Theatre Information

EMERGENCY EVACUATION PROCEDURES

In the event of an emergency, please wait for an announcement for further instructions. Ushers will be available for assistance.

FOOD AND DRINK are not allowed in the theatre. Bottled water is permitted, as well as beverages purchased in lidded souvenir cups at the bar in the lobby.

SMOKING POLICY According to state law, smoking is NOT allowed within 25 feet of any door, nor in any part of the theatre.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS If you need to be reached during a performance, please leave your exact seat number and the House Manager's number with your service or sitter. In Issaquah (425) 392-1942 x100 In Everett (425) 257-6368

YOUNG CHILDREN Children under four are not permitted in the main theatre space in Issaquah or Everett. In Issaquah, the Francis J. Gaudette Theatre has comfortable, soundproof family rooms for families with young children or those who may wish to speak during the show. Subscribers may exchange into the family rooms when a sitter cannot be found. When bringing children over four into the main theatre, please instruct them on proper theatre behavior. It is helpful to familiarize them with the story and the score in advance.

ACCESSIBILITY Wheelchair seating is available. Please advise your ticket seller when purchasing tickets if you require wheelchair seating. American Sign Language (ASL) interpretation is provided during select performances at the Francis J. Gaudette Theatre. Please contact the Box Office for more details.

LISTENING SYSTEM The Francis J. Gaudette Theatre and the Everett Performing Arts Center have hearing loop systems which are compatible with most hearing aids. Headsets are available in both venues on a first-come, first-served basis from the House Manager and are free of charge with a valid ID.

THE SHOW MUST GO ON Whether it rains, sleets, snows or blows, only a power outage or building destruction will prevent a performance from taking place as scheduled.

PATRON CONSIDERATIONS Please arrive on time. Check your tickets for your performance time. Late arrivals are very disruptive to fellow patrons and to the artists onstage. Please give yourself plenty of time to get to the theatre. Patrons arriving late will not be seated until a suitable pause in the performance at the House Manager's discretion. Please turn off all pagers, cellular phones and watch alarms before entering the theatre. No text messaging is allowed during the performance. No photography, video or sound recording of any performance is allowed based on royalty and union agreements.

Be aware that talking, humming and tapping feet during a performance is also disruptive to the patrons around you. Before the overture begins, please turn off playbill flashlights and unwrap cough drops. In intimate auditoriums like the Francis J. Gaudette Theatre and the Everett Performing Arts Center, even the actors can hear these seemingly small noises. Please use moderation in applying perfume, cologne or lotion, as many people are allergic to scents.

In consideration of your fellow patrons and the actors, please do not leave the performance during the curtain call.

THE FATES fast facts

String is a brand-new story about The Fates, mythological goddesses named Clotho, Lachesis, and Atropos. While String is set in more contemporary times, The Fates have a long history in storytelling and in Greek and Roman history. Here are some quick facts about these all-powerful goddesses to give you some background on the characters.

- Called the Moirai, meaning “parts,” “shares,” or “allotted portions,” in Greek mythology and Parcae in Roman mythology.
- In Greek mythology, their names are Clotho “spinner,” Lachesis “allotter,” and Atropos “inevitable.”
- Roman mythology names them as Nona “ninth,” Decuma “tenth,” and Morta “dead one.”
- The Fates are three sister goddesses who determine the destiny (when life begins, when it ends, and everything in between) of both mortals and gods – including Zeus.
- Three days after a baby was born, The Fates would visit the child to determine their lifespan and fate. While the mortal or god could make day to day decisions, overarching life achievements were made by The Fates. Good vs. evil was also decided by The Fates.
- The Fates’ origins are hotly debated. Some say they were the daughters of Zeus and the titan goddess Themis (goddess of divine order). Others say they were the daughters of Ananke (the personification of necessity). Another version lists Nyx (Night) as their mother.
- While they are most often described as ugly old women who are stern, severe, and unmerciful, they don’t always take that shape. They are also often shown in their respective life cycles: maiden, matron, and old crone.
- It is believed The Fates created the Greek alphabet.

THE FATES in Pop Culture

The Fates have taken many shapes in Pop Culture. Here are a few places you might have seen them:

- The Three Witches in Shakespeare’s Macbeth are based on The Fates
- Three small witch-like characters that work with Hades in Disney’s Hercules
- Characters in Rick Riordan’s Percy Jackson and the Olympians Series
- Obese silkworm-like creatures in the video game Gods of War II
- Little bald male doctors in Stephen King’s Insomnia
- The names of selectable background music in the Sega Mega Drive video game, Columns
- Demons in the video game Shin Megami Tensei III: Nocturne
- Elders of the Guild of Weavers in the video game Loom
- Song, “The Three Fates” by Emerson, Lake & Palmer

YOUR SUPPORT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Since its inception in 1979, Village Theatre has become one of the nation's premiere, fully producing regional theatres. Village Theatre is a cultural haven for hundreds of thousands of people. We INSPIRE with our professional Mainstage productions, we CREATE by developing new works in our Village Originals program, and we EDUCATE through our Youth Education & Outreach Programs. To grow and sustain these efforts Village Theatre needs your support. Your gift will impact lives for good through each of Village Theatre's programs.

HOW TO SUPPORT VILLAGE THEATRE

ONLINE: You can easily give online through our secure website, VillageTheatre.org, by clicking on "Donate Now." Please note: Your donation profile is linked to your primary email address, which is used as a unique identifier, linking your donation to your patron account.

BY MAIL: Payments can be made by credit card or by personal check payable to Village Theatre. Please mail to Village Theatre, PO Box 2350, Issaquah, WA 98027.

STOCK TRANSFERS: A gift of stock is a simple and excellent way to donate. Please consult with your investment advisor, inform them of our investment account number on the donation form, and send the form to us so that we may allocate your gift to your account.

EMPLOYER MATCHING GIFTS: You may double or even triple your contribution by taking advantage of your company's Matching Gifts program, where your employer may match your monetary gift to Village Theatre. A list of current participating companies is on our website under "Other Ways to Give." If you do not see your employer on our list, please contact your benefits or human resources office for details. (Matching Gifts also count toward your total for benefit levels, entitling you to additional, exclusive donor advantages.)

EMPLOYER MATCHING VOLUNTEER HOURS: Many companies also match volunteer hours with monetary gifts to nonprofits. There are numerous events at Village Theatre where you may volunteer, and your volunteer hours can turn into financial support for Village Theatre. Again, please contact your employer's benefits or human resources office for details.

PLANNED GIVING: Become a Village Theatre Guardian by including a provision in your estate plans to leave a gift to Village Theatre through your will or living trust, IRA/retirement pension, insurance policy, charitable remainder trust, or charitable lead trust. Please call (425) 392-1942 x208 to let us know of your intentions.

ENDOWMENT: Village Theatre's Endowment Fund is a permanent, self-sustaining source of funding. Donations to the Endowment are permanently restricted and the Endowment assets are invested. Each year, a portion of the interest earnings of the Fund is paid out to support Village Theatre, and any earnings in excess of this distribution are used to build the Fund's market value. Please call (425) 392-1942 x208 for details on supporting the Endowment.

CONTACT FOR MORE INFORMATION: please contact Giving@VillageTheatre.org, call (425) 392-1942 x111, or go to our website VillageTheatre.org/donate
